FEDS TO BLOW, IS THE RUMOR

National League Calls Special Meeting in New York City for Next Week.

TO DISCUSS OUTLAWS

Proposed Session Believed to Be Outcome of Tip that Feds Were Through—Other Gossip.

By WILLIAM PEST.

For New York next week a special meeting of the National League has been called, the purpose of which is connected with the senior organization appears willing to divulge.

The tip is out that the Federal League is about to hit the rocks and disband, for in baseball circles it is believed that the so-called outlaws have about run their course. They have not found the field such a prolific one, and several of the owners are said to be ready to close up shop.

For this reason alone the unexpected calling of a midsummer meeting of the National League magnates by President Chase has been ordered, according to well-founded rumors.

With all due respect to the Feds, and in a spirit of fairness, the writer happens to know from personal information that the third league has suffered terrible reverses since the 1915 season opened.

In the ranks of organized ball, attendance figures this spring have been away below normal, and it is hard to see how the Feds, although backed as they claim by millions of dollars, can stand the gauntlet for the reason that it has been clearly demonstrated there is no room for a third league, granting the Feds the honors they claim, that of being major leagues.

Last season the Feds' stronghold was in Chicago, but at present, with both the White Sox and Cubs going at a championship pace, the Windy City fans have entirely deserted the newcomers.

The fine work of the Brooklyn Dodgers has hurt the Ward crowd in that city, although figures at the Brooklyn Fed park averaging 300 paid admissions, according to reliable reports.

Yesterday's dual victory by Bill Carrigan's Boston Red Sox over the Nationals brought the Hub bunch right on the heels of the Chicago White Sox, only one full game separating the clubs for first place, according to the standing published in another column.

Thanks to an eventful season, the New Yorks and Connie Mack's Athletics, the Griffins did not lose a whole lot of ground, but consider for a minute what a grand attendance figures at the Fenway have had, the Donovan crew with a winning streak unbroken in Boston.

The Griffins are traveling today, bound for Chicago, where tomorrow a series of four games will be opened. Let us hope that a change of scenery will also bring about a change in the work of the Nationals.

Jose Muessegger, Jr., manager of the All-Cuban baseball club, which is touring the United States, stopped over in the Capital for a few hours with his boys last night. Senator Muessegger states that his club has made a fine showing up to date, and that after playing teams around New York for a few weeks hopes to come to Washington for an exhibition either against the Nationals or some strong local independent club.

One subject for the National magnates to discuss at the meeting next week is what to do if the ball players who jumped their contracts and signed with the Feds desire to come back. Some of the magnates are unalterably opposed to permitting any player who has broken contract with a club to rejoin the organization. Others might be willing to let down the bars.

A compromise may be effected whereby the jumpers will be allowed to play with minor league clubs. This, of course, is predicated on the theory that the Feds are going to give up the ghost, but perhaps they will stick it out for some time longer.

Arrange New Schedule.

The trip of the Marions to Norfolk to take part in a series of games with the Marine team at that place necessitated a shift in the schedule of the Government League and the secretary has given out the following schedule for the balance of the season:

July 8, Foresters vs. Navy; July 9, Library vs. Commerce; July 12, Foresters vs. Library; July 13, Commerce vs. Bureau; July 15, Navy vs. Commerce; July 16, Bureau vs. Foresters; July 18, Commerce vs. Marines; July 22, Bureau vs. Commerce; July 23, Navy vs. Marines.

EXPECT LARGE LIST IN TENNIS TOURNAMENT

Entries for the first annual tennis tournament of the Home Club will close with John Beale, of the Reclamation Service, on Monday, July 12, and the pairings will be made that evening.

From present indications over fifty Interior Department clerks will be entered in the singles, nearly half that many having already signified their intention of competing by registering with Mr. Beale.

Red Sox Make It Six in Row Over Griffins

Engel Twirls Fine Ball in Second Game, but Teammates Behind Him Fail to Hit—Gallia Pounded. Scores, 9 to 4 and 1 to 0.

By PAUL SHANNON.

Baseball writer of the Boston Post.

Boston, July 7.—As a gloomy finish to the most unsuccessful visit that a Washington team has made here within recent years, the Griffins dropped their third double-header to the Red Sox this afternoon, and thereby suffered the seventh successive defeat before starting away on their Western trip. Needless to say, these six setbacks in the Hub have lowered the spirits of the Nationals to freezing point, and it will be many a day perhaps before the perplexed manager can get them to show much of their former life and "pep."

As a last resource Griff sent in both Gallia and Engel, and the order in which he worked them an even break might have been the result of the evening's toil. But through starting Gallia against Snodgrass, who was out of the game, and Joe Wood, Griff saw his team lose after doing its best batting of the series, while Dutch Leonard, back in his first shape, again took the measure of Joe Engel in a close and hard-fought contest.

Bert Gallia Hit Hard.

Gallia was hit hard terrifically in the opening, as he was in the first and had to give way to Ayres before the third inning was finished. The Sox by this time having accumulated an easy 3-to-0 lead. This probably accounted for Wood's subsequent let-down, for he eased up considerably toward the end and let the visitors succeed in scoring four tallies, making the series. Before the battle was ended, incidentally, by downing the Griffins this afternoon Joe Wood hung up his ninth straight victory.

Had the Griffins been able to save a couple of these tallies for the second contest, they might have come in mighty handy for 1 to 0 was the decision by which they dropped the second encounter. After the way that the Red Sox had pitched, Gallia and Snodgrass, the rest of Griff's pitchers, Carlgren expected an easy victory with Engel on the mound. "Main Boy" Chalmers, who had the hardest fight of the whole six games, and with a little batting behind him, he might have won.

Engel was not wild to any extent, and none of the passes he gave proved at all costly. Twice he had the bases filled with none down and got away without allowing a hit. He had the bases full, but he started against "Dutch" Leonard, who is now himself again, after many weeks of rest, and he pitched a solid two-hits for a starter. Here the sacrifice might have helped along to a score, but when Moeller popped up to Thomas and Foster hit into an unlucky double play the jig was up.

More than 14,000 people saw the games, this bringing the total paid attendance for three days up to nearly 40,000. Tommy Connolly, who has played great ball all through the series, was featured by his Roxbury friends this afternoon and presented with a magnificent silver loving cup.

17-YEAR-OLD GOLFERS PLAY.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 7.—The playing of 17-year-olds was the feature of the first round in the Central States Golf Association championship tournament today. The winner was a 17-year-old youngster, defeated "Al" Hayburn, the youthful expert from Louisville, 3 up and 2 to play, eighteen holes, and tonight his chances at the championship are considered bright.

The First Game.

In the first contest, hits by Janvris, Speaker and Hoblitzel gave Boston the two runs they got in the opening round. Connolly's single, a steal and Henry's hard double let the Griffins get back one of these in the second, but in the third the locals put the game out of their hands. Gallia was found for six hits, including a triple by Joe Wood, before he was yanked in favor of Ayres. Hooper struck out, my Connolly, who has played great ball all through the series, was featured by his Roxbury friends this afternoon and presented with a magnificent silver loving cup.

The Second Game.

The one run made by Boston in the third round of this contest tells the real story of the game. Barry led off with a double, took third on Leonard's infield hit with one out, and scored on Hooper's single. The bases were filled with one down here, yet Speaker was compelled by Engel to hit into a quick double play. In the fourth, the Red Sox filled the sacks with none out on a clean hit, a pass and a hit by pitcher, yet Engel kept them from getting a score. The Griffins got but three hits off Leonard in this game, two of them coming in the first inning, where a hit by Gandil might have changed the complexion of the game.

The wonderful work of the Boston outfield was shown here, and for the next six rounds, the only visitors to reach bases got there on Boston's single play or Leonard's wildness. In the eighth, as told above, Johnson opened with a two-bagger, but poor judgment let this hit go to waste.

President Gaffney, of the Braves, and the whole St. Louis National League club witnessed the double-header. The scores:
